SEC Faces Financial Crisis

To Speak Tonight

GIAN-CARLO MENOTTI will lecture tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium. Menotti is one of the most versatile composers of our time, having written operas which were performed both in the Metropolitan Opera House and on the Broadway Stage. The most well-known of his works are "The Telephone", and "The Old Maid and the Thief", which were performed recently in Montreal, and such major operas as "The Consul", and "The Saints of Bleeker Street". The lecture is the first in a series sponsored by the Music Faculty of McGill under the organization of Dr. Ellen Ballon, noted concert pianist. The public is admitted free of charge.

Activities Union Night Big Success

Over 500 people jammed into the McGill Union last night to take part in the annual Activities Night. Almost all of the McGill student clubs and societies took part by setting up tables exhibiting the activities of their respective organizations during the year. The Mathematical Society even undertook to entertain their visitors with a mechanical brain that challenged all comers to a game of tic-tac-toe, while MOC showed its versatility by having a member scale the "rocky" walls of the Union.

Michael and Helen Conte, two of the instructors obtained for this year's union-sponsored dance classes, demonstrated their skills in the "cha-cha-cha" and various other dances on the Union Ballroom floor, also the scene of a stag dance lasting well into the night.

Many Organizations

Among the organizations taking part in the festivities were: McGill Outing Club, McGill Union Committee, Red and White Revue, Forge, Pre-Medical Society, Current Affairs Club, Philosophy Club, Literary Society and Writers' Club, Classics Club, Debating Society, Scope, Canterbury Club, Gliding Club, Camera Club, Franklin Society, United Nations Club, McGill Daily, McGill Student Physics Society, Montegian Geology

$20,000 Budget Cut Must Be Enforced

By Ron Caplan

The SEC, after years of financial stability, is faced this year with the prospect of cutting the budget by some $20,000. The immediate effect of this reduction will be a general decrease in the budgets of the various clubs on campus.

Heenan Speaks

Roy Heenan, Finance Director of the SEC, stated, "In order to keep within our budget, all clubs must have a careful stocktaking of their programs and limit them to the bare essentials. Some activities may even have to be curtailed." However, Heenan felt that many campus organizations could continue to operate at their present level. "As late as two or three years ago," said Heenan, "many clubs were able to finance most of their own ventures; some were even profit-making. I feel that many of these clubs could revert to that status."

Tighten Your Belts

Let's face it. We've been living in a fool's paradise. Over the past two years the Students' Society has been subsidized by an anonymous donation totalling fifty thousand dollars which we can no longer count upon. Last year we spent twenty-four thousand dollars more than we collected in fees. There must be a stop somewhere.

Two things can be done. One is to cut down the vast myriad of clubs that have sprung up on campus during the last two years of plenty.

The other is to look about for some means of making these events partially pay for themselves. This will call for a complete change of attitude on the part of every club and society at McGill. We must realize that we can no longer dig into a bottomless pit for financial support for our activities. Each group must help to pay for itself both by decreasing its expenses and increasing its revenues. Even such extremely worthwhile activities as Scope and the Film Society should charge some form of small admission to help keep our heads above water. A mere one dollar membership charge to Scope could realize about two thousand dollars, and would reduce Scope's subsidy from the Students' Society from three to one thousand dollars.

The only way we can continue the long list of specialized student activities at McGill is for all of us to realize that the ride on the gravy train is over. No more free dinners for friends, no more free bottles after parties, no more squandering budgeted for but unspent money. In the long run the Student — You are the one who is paying the tab. Tighten your belts or drop twenty-five percent of all activity on campus. The choice is yours.

Sense Of Skepticism Healthy

Sir:

A sense of skepticism is always a healthy quality to be developed by university students. Its application should never be arbitrarily limited. Therefore, it is to be hoped that Gabriel Rezek's statement on Suez Canal in last Thursday's Daily will not be accepted on its face value.

My specific argument with Mr. Rezek is that he carries his objectivity only to a pre-ordained length. When it comes to the question of Israel, he glimly accepts and propagates the current Egyptian-Arab line.

Neither Israeli ships nor ships bound to or from Israel can use the Suez Canal, contrary to Mr. Rezek's misinformed statement that non-strategic goods can pass. Because the Egyptian Government's definition of strategic goods extends to cement (S. S. Pannegia, held three months at Port Said from May, 1956) to meat, plywood and hides (S. S. Bat Galim, confiscated (!) and absorbed (!) into the Egyptian Navy according to Cairo's Al Akhbar of Aug. 26, 1956), it becomes ridiculous and false for Mr. Rezek to talk about the permissible passage of non-strategic goods.

There is really no justification for Egypt to blockade Israeli ships from the Suez. The lack of peace between Israel and Egypt is a deliberate fostered activity of the Egyptian leaders. Not once, repeat once, have the Egyptian government ever expressed a desire to make peace with Israel, let alone sit down at a conference table. How can such a country be trusted to recognize its international responsibilities vis-a-vis the Suez Canal when its aggressive warlike intentions abound in its relations with a neighbouring country?

Letters To The Editor

Nasser Flagrantly Misunderstood

Sir,

If Mr. Rymes' article was meant as a "reply" for Mr. Rezek's article, I am afraid it did not serve its purpose. Mr. Rymes has not put forward any argument to disprove the sound legal and analytical reasoning of Mr. Rezek. He has chosen, rather, to fight his battle on a field he himself wanted to choose, thus he engaged on a vehement attack on the person of Nasser, using in his regard such bombastic words as "demagogue", "hypernationalist" etc.

I do not know where from Mr. Rymes obtained his information about the failure of Nasser's reconstruction plans, because anybody who visits Egypt to-day, or any part of the Arab world for that matter, is bound to notice a new spirit and a determination to raise the standard of living and to make that part of the world share effectively in the building of a world where justice, mutual-respect and cooperation reigns and thrives. Plans may fail, difficulties may present themselves, but isn't this how the history of nations is built — by braving difficulties, surmounting obstacles, and never be discouraged?

Mr. Rymes attacks Nasser, as someone dreaming of an empire. This is a flagrant misunderstanding. All that Nasser wants as is indeed the desire of every Arab, is to unite the Arabs into a federal state. A hope that the Arabs have nursed since the latter part of the 19th. century, and for which they are witnessing to-day only a partial realization. The unity of the Arab people does not mean imperializing other people. It is sheer non-sense to speak of Arab unity as imperialism when some of the Arab countries are still suffering under the yoke of imperialism. Let's not kid ourselves!

I do not want to be bold and say what some interested parties want the Arab world to degenerate into. I have noticed as indeed any one following the Middle East politics does, that whenever somebody from that area stands up and tries to take a step forward in the way of progress, he is immediately labelled as a communist, demagogue or any other such unflattering adjectives, and every effort is made to unseat him. On the other hand if no such man appears then the Arab countries are described as dormant, inactive and must therefore be assimilated by the countries interested in it.

Naturally, the progress of the Arab countries will take into consideration primarily the interest of these countries themselves and the defence of their own sovereignty. One cannot ask the Arabs to possess an altruism that the rest of the world does not possess, or, to sacrifice its own interests in order to preserve the interests of East or West. We all look forward to the day when such a spirit of sacrifice would reign in the world, but the way things are to-day such attitude is unrealistic and immature.

Sophie

Sir:

This is to correct a statement in your Open House issue which said that I had designed Sophie, the mechanical brain. It is far more likely for Sophie to have designed me! Sophie was in fact designed and built by my colleagues J.E.L. Peck, G.D. Findlay, B.A. Rattray and M. Herschorn of the Mathematics Department. Her brain cells were lent to us by the Northern Electric Company and the Department of Electrical Engineering. Sophie regrets that she cannot register as a student at McGill, since her components must so on be returned to their rightful owners.

Students Separation

Dr. H. H. Saunderson, president of the University of Manitoba, last week predicted the separation of students into "ability group" and also an improved quality of teaching.

He stated that a course designed for the below-average student hindered the progress of the above-average student.

He told this to the convention of the Canadian Education Association when the three day convention opened last week. It was attended by 350 delegates, among these being seven ministers of education, deputy ministers and directors of studies.

Several improvements in our educational systems were suggested by Dr. Saunderson, among these being the development of several rooms to every class which would add many desirable features to modern teaching methods.

Also predicted was a reversal of the present trend towards not using competitive marking. This trend was started by some educationalists who believed that the competitive marking system had adverse effects upon the students' minds.

Dr. Saunderson said that a teacher has more chance to specialize in a larger school and therefore the larger the school the higher the quality of teaching in that school.

A larger number of average students was forecast with revision of the courses accordingly, stressing the practical subjects and dropping the more complex.

Several subjects discussed were: teacher education, provincial financing of education, and education for retarded children.

Watershow Meeting Today at Four In RVC

Anyone interested in taking part in this year's Watershow, either as a performer or on the technical side is invited to attend the Watershow Meeting on Thursday, October 11 at four o'clock in the R.V.C. Common Room. The annual watershow attracted about one hundred and twenty-five swimmers last year, which gave about eighteen numbers making the show one of the big athletic events of the year. Aside from the actual performers in the water, there are many girls who worked behind the scenes, planning the costumes, directing numbers, and doing many other various jobs that enter such a large synchronized swimming show.

The water show director this year is Gerry Debrule and the technical chairman is Claire Tucker. Anyone who can do any swimming at all is encouraged to partake in the Watershow. As a matter of fact, last year the number that drew the most applause was one that was put on by Mac; it consisted of no tricks at all only precision swimming to music with everyone's motions absolutely synchronized.

This meeting, today at four o'clock, will be followed by meetings and practices, to be posted, until the final production takes place December 7 and 8.

RUGGER

The following will report to the Town of Mount Royal for the game Saturday, October 13 at 12:30 p.m. Forwards: Cookson, Wren, Pickering, Ban, Kaye, Sullivan, Holliday, Collins. Halves: Booth, Kinsey. Three-quarters: Khazzam, Butsch, Stuart, Bible. Fullback: Parsons.

Pat Orser, a first year Phys. Ed. student came first in four events. She won both the 50 and 25 yard breast stroke, the twenty-five yard back crawl, and the individual medley. Diane Matheson of second year Phys. Ed. won the 50 yard swims in the back, crawl, side stroke and free style. Other winners were Pat Blundell, Rose Rochman, and Pauline McCullagh.

SEC Discusses Problems Budget Headache Foremost

by Liz Gillespie

The Students' Society is in bad financial condition. The SEC surplus has dropped from $27,707 to $11,288, or over $16,000, in the past twelve months. Last year $65,313 was spent on student activities and administration, almost double the sum spent in '53-'54. According to Wilf Hastings, Secretary-Treasurer of the Students' Society, last year "we spent everything we could get our hands on."

The sharp increase in expenditure over the past few years has been caused by the new and larger deficits that have been incurred by individual student activities rather than by an increase in administrative costs. Last year only one activity, the Freshman Reception Committee, showed a profit. In 1950 numerous activities, including the Union and the Daily, came out in the black.

Complacency

Roy Heenan, Finance Director of the SEC, stated that the Council has fostered a false sense of complacency concerning financial matters; it has given the impression that it has loads of money. Unfortunately this is not the case. Heenan also felt that the SEC should not become dependent on anonymous donations as these are obviously not a permanent source of income. Exactly how and where the SEC will cut down on expenditures will not be known until the next Council meeting when individual budgets will be reviewed.

Reports

The SEC passed funds to cover the expense of a part-time student secretary to type reports of all student activities. These reports will be placed in a permanent file for future reference. It is hoped, in this way, to provide future organizers and leaders with information that might be difficult to obtain otherwise.

Appointments

John Sealy, Managing Editor of the Annual, was appointed as its signing officer for '56-'57. Dick MacVicar was given the job of looking into the working of the Student Directory for this year.
